

A Warm Gift Before a Harsh Winter – Arsal, Lebanon

In the cold camps of Arsal, where winter arrives early and without mercy, a Palestinian mother holds tightly to the blankets she has just received. For her, these are not just blankets; they are warmth, safety, and reassurance for her children as freezing nights approach.

Living in a tent with limited protection against the cold, every winter brings fear and uncertainty. But in this moment, her smile tells a different story. Through the In-Kind Gifts Program, these simple items became a shield against the harsh weather and a reminder that she and her family are not forgotten.

This unique program, the In-Kind Gifts Program, stands as a lifeline for vulnerable families, delivering actual support and bringing hope when it is needed most.

A Smile of Relief in Akkar, Lebanon

In Akkar, where hardship has become part of daily life for many families, this woman's smile tells a story of strength and resilience. Carrying a bag of bedding items, she stands with dignity, knowing that what she holds will help her family face the days ahead.

For families in Akkar, meeting basic needs is an ongoing struggle. Yet through the In-Kind Gifts Program, bedding items reached her at a critical time, easing the burden and bringing reassurance that she is not alone even in the most difficult circumstances.
